No Uncertain Resolutions Adopted Regarding Freight Trains Running On Sunday.

MATTER OF HOME MISSIONS

Committee Instructed to Aid in Establishing Schools for Christian Education.

The one hundred and eighteenth annual session of the Presbyterian Synod of Virginta will end to-day. A great mass of business was completed yesterday, and the programme will be finished out probably by this afternoon. The meeting has been one of the most successful hi the history of the body. The attendance has been very large, and a vast amount of important and necessary work has been accomplished.

Yesterday the matters of chief note were the fixing of the time and place for the next meeting, the report upon the condition of the churches, the reports touching the home mission work, the coltouching the home mission work, the college work, and the work of the Union Theological Seminary, and finally the action of the Synod with reference to the stopping of Sunday trains. Upon this last matter the body expressed its hearty sympathy with the movement contemplated, and named a committee of three members to confer with representatives of other ecclesiastical bodies and to unite with them in an organization to persuade, and, if necessary, through the courts, to force, the railroad? "to observe the existing laws."

The Fourth Day.

The Fourth Day.

The Fourth Day.

The fourth day of the Synod opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mr. S. J. Coffman, a ruling clder. The first business disposed of was the fixing of the time for the next meeting, which will be held in Staunton. The date agreed upon is October 25, 1906.

The narrative of the state of religion in the churches was made by the Rev. Dr. G. L. Petrie. This report referred to the liberality of the contributions made for church work, declared that the salaries of the pastors generally to have made for church work, declared that the salaries of the pastors generally to have been paid, and in some cases to have been increased, and touched further upon the energetic evangalistic work in which many of the churches are engaged, in addition to the regular church work. Proceeding, the narrative said:

"The reports from the various presbyteries of the Synod in regard to the state of religion in the churches within their bounds indicate nothing unusual. There are lights and shadows that make up the picture on which we are called to look. There are reasons for encouragement that should nerve us for renewed endeavors, and cheer our hearts with hope. But we are also reminded that results have fallen far short of the ideal of our desires and attempts. With a remarkable unanimity the presbyteries report a good attendance on regular services. The Sabbath morning service is said to be well attended; the evening service not so well attended, with some exceptions. The prayer meeting service in some instances well attended, but in others not so well. But throughout the reports there is a tone of cheer and encouragement as to the numbers that wait on the ministration of the Word.

Family Worship.

Family Worship.

'In regard to family worship there is a prevalent note of discouragement. Most of the presbyteries report a sad neglect of the home altar, while other presbyteries report a partial observance of this sweet and sacred means of grace, stating at the same time that in many instances the home worship is greatly neglected. The tenor of the reports clearly indicates that the daily worship in the homes, which our fathers so faithfully conducted, and under the helpful influences of which we were reared, has yielded to the pressure of modern demands, and in many instances is now unknown. The family altar needs to be erected again, and its holy fires kindled anew.

'Sahbath observance receives a favorable report in most instances, but this statement is restricted to church

"Sabbath observance receives a favorable report in most instances, but this statement is restricted to church members, as distinguished from communities, and a further statement is made that there prevails a more liberal view of what constitutes a proper Sabbath observance. Also attention is called to desecration of the Sabbath by Sunday trains, Sunday mails and Sunday newspapers.

"The presbyterial reports show that the children of the Church are faithfully trained in Sunday schools, being for the most part carefully taught the Bible, the catechism and other standards of the Church. But in many instances the statement is made that

But in many instances the statement is made that the duty of religious teaching is neglected by purents and by them devolved too largely upon the Sunday school. Home, as home worship, is sadly neglected."

Home Missions.

An amendment to the Home Missions from the stablishment of schools for Christian ideatalon, wherever practicable, was offered by the Rev. Dr. A. L. Phillips, and after a considerable discussion was adopted. Dr. Phillips made a strong appeal for the attention of the Synod to the necessity of evangelical and educational work going hand in hand in those parts of the Synod's territory where there was Presbyterian destitution and ignorance. He pointed out that in North Carolina this was being done with great success, and that the effect on the mountain people was a splendid one. He said that a lady had made an offer of a house and 172 acres of mountain land for the establishment of schools for Christian identification, wherever practicable, was offered by the Rev. Dr. A. L. "2. The plan for the organization of the proposed commission and the method by which the commission, if organized, would seek to attain the desired object, cannot at this stage of the movement be clearly defined, but the idea seems to be that the commission should confine itself at first to appeals to the railroads themselves to observe existing laws, but there are suggestions that the commission might resort to the courts to enforce the laws, if moral suasion should fall, and it is also intimated that if success attends either of these efforts the commission might go further and interest itself in the enactment of even better laws than those which now exist.

"3. The historic position of the Southern Presbyterian Church, which indeed is one of its distinctive principles, is that, while the Church may use moral sussion with corporations and individuals, and should so educate its own members in civic righteousness that, acting as citizens, they will shouly and collectively strive to see ness that, acting as citizens, they will singly and collectively strive to secure the adoption and enforcement of righteous laws, yet ecclesiastical bodies, as such, should never take the sword into their hands, or directly employ or influence the agencies of the State for the promotion of moral or spiritual ends.

"4. In order to express the sympathy of the Synod with the objects sought through this commission and our desire to co-operate in all proper ways with our brethren of other Churches in the advancement of righteousness, we recommend that a committee of three be appointed to confer with the representatives of other ecclesiastical bodies, if such should be appointed, and to unite with

The Seminary.

The report of the committee on Union Theological Seminary was made and an anddress was delivered by the treasurer of the institution, Mr. John S. Munce. Mr. Munce stated that the finances of the Seminary are in excellent condition, but emphasized the fact that a larger endowment is needed to enable it to accomplish the full work it ought to do in educating young men for the ministry. He told of an effort being made to raise $50,000 to endow the chair of theology, which is to be known as the "R. L. Dabney Chair of Systematic Theology." The Synod endorsed the Dabney fund proposition, and appointed a committee to look after the movement. The report of the committee on Union

An address was also delivered by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Moore, president of the Seminary. Dr. Moore said that the young men now being trained there are a fine set of men, who are doing faithful work. He said that the requirements for graduation in that institution are being steadily raised. In speaking of the practical training given there, he said that at a recent conference of representatives of the theological seminaries of this country it was shown the students of Union Seminary are doing more city mission work than those of any other institution; that they are doing more mission work during the summer vacations; that they are better organized for the study of missions, home and foreign; that their An address was also delivered by the of missions, home and foreign; that their contributions per capita are larger, and that the course of special lectures is more extensive than in any other semi-

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session of the Synod convened in Watts' Chapel, at Union Theological Seminary, at 4 o'clock, in acceptance of an invitation from the faculty of that institution. The pretty chapel was filled with delegates and their friends, who were extended a cordial wolcome to the Seminary by President Moore, representing the faculty and students.

The response to the address of welcome was made by the Rev. Dr. Newton Donaldson, of Huntington, W. Va. moderator of the Synod. Dr. Donaldson took occasion to express his appreciation of his recent election by the Synod as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Seminary, and his thorough interest in all that pertains to the welfare of this splendid theological school. He also spoke as a representative of the great section of country in which he has been laboring for a number of years, exhibiting something of the need for more consecrated ministers of the Gospel there and expressing the hope that the young men of the Seminary as they graduate will give their attention to the calls continually coming from the church in that section.

After adjournment from the chapel, a photograph was made of the entire Synod in front of Watts' Hall.

Following this was the formal reception given by the faculty and students of the institution to the visiting friends in Spence Library building. Here gathered several hundred of the members of the Synod, together with many of their haly friends, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in delightful social intercourse.

The Night Session.

At the night session an address on Ministerial Education and Relief was made by the Rev. II. II. Sweets, of Louisville, Ky. Memorials to the following deceased ministers were read: Dr. E. P. Palmer, M. F. Pilson, Dr. C. N. Campbell, Dr. E. D. Washburn, P. B. Price, Dr. J. A. Lefevre, Dr. J. A. Waddell, J. H. Lewis.

The cases of Harry Clark and Robert Lillister, for the killing of Charles D. Smith, in Union Station, Saturday, came up before Police Justice Badger this afternion, and an order was made for the continuance of the case of Clark until Tuesday, on account of the absence of witnesses for the defense, notably a man by the name of Hall, connected with the Unarlotte Artillery Company, and two students of Draughnan's Business College, by whom the defense contends that the shots by neither of the prisoners could have killed Smith. The trial of Lillister is in progress.

WHITE MAN 10 BLAME.

(By/Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Booker T. Washington, in a speech at a mass-meeting yesterday at the First regiment arrhory, in connection with the national convention of negro Baptists, blamed the white man for the existence of a race problem in Africa. He declared it was created by "not allowing the black man in his native land to ride on passenger trains, but forcing him to ride in freight cars." Continuing, Washington said:

"The European nations almost have taken Africa from us. I am not discouraged when I hear your reports. Bending missionaries to Africa shows an advanced step, for only progressive and intelligent peoples send our missionaries. Did you ever hear of a Chinaman or Indian sending out missionaries? You are not only sending to Africa the Bible, the spelling book and the Gospel, but you are uniting the people." The convention will close to-day.
